MOBILIZE LAW IN U.S. DEFENSE

F. B. I. Plans Voluntary Organization of Police Groups

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 22.—Director J. Edgar Hoover, announced today that the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in the interests of national defense, was conducting a voluntary mobilization of virtually every law enforcement agency in the United States.

The effect of the cooperative program, the FBI chief said, was the welding of most of the country's 150,000 police officers into "an active, vigilant, alert army safeguarding the internal security of the nation."

Exchange Information The key of the plan, Hoover explained, was the interchange of information between leading law enforcement officials and representatives of the FBI working out of 54 strategically located field offices.

State, county and city police will turn over to the FBI all information concerning national defense matters. The bureau correlates such tips in the hope of finding a pattern which will lead to solution of a crime or prevention of one.

In addition, the FBI meets with the law officers of hundreds of cities several times a year. At these sessions experts pass on the latest methods of crime prevention and detection, and also discuss wartime law enforcement problems.

Lies Expected Results Hoover said that the voluntary plan was expected to have these results:

1. Bring police officials together for a nationally coordinated public service and demonstrate that there is no need for a national police.
2. Help eliminate through co-operation some of the jurisdictional limitations which frequently hamper city, county or state officials.
3. Raise the standards of law enforcement through an interchange of knowledge, increase the proficiency of all officers and tend to standardize police reports.
4. Afford a maximum protection against sabotage and espionage as well as set up a tremendous investigative system.

YOUTH KILLED BY COAL TRUCK

Meets Death on Way Home After Seeking Job In Lisbon

Edward Francis Dawson, 20, of Middlebourne, W. Va., who had been staying with relatives near Lisbon for the past month, was killed instantly today when hit by a coal truck as he attempted to cross Route 45, about a mile and a quarter north of Lisbon, at 9:45 a. m. today.

Death was due to a broken neck, Coroner Arnold Devon said.

Dawson, as he had done twice a day for practically all of the past month, went to the plant of the National Brass & Copper Co. this morning, trying to get a job on one of the shifts. Again unsuccessful, he started back for the home of his brother, Clifford Dawson, R. D. 4, Lisbon.

While walking along N. Market st. in Lisbon, he was given a ride by Harley Brewer of R. D. 1, East Liverpool, who was traveling toward Salem.

According to state highway patrolmen and the sheriff's office, Brewer left the youth out near the intersection of Route 45 and the Coleman road.

As Brewer drove away, Dawson ran across the highway and directly into the path of a south-bound coal truck, driven by Leroy Rouse, 40, of Lisbon. Rouse, according to the report, tried to stop but the man was hit and hurled into the air. He landed on his head in the center of the road.

A Lisbon physician, who happened along soon after, examined the victim and pronounced him dead. The body was removed to the Eells parlors at Lisbon where it later was identified.

Officers first believed the man to have been a hitch-hiker. He had no identification papers in his pockets.

Among the survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Dawson of Middlebourne, W. Va., and the brother, Clifford, of R. D. 4, Lisbon.

RUDOLF HESS CHASED DOWN BY RAF PLANE

Air Secretary Sinclair Makes Statement In House

NOT RECOGNIZED BY BRITISH DUKE

Hamilton Had Never Met Deputy Fuehrer, Is Declaration

(By Associated Press) LONDON, May 22.—Rudolf Hess, the runaway deputy fuehrer of Nazi Germany, bailed out of his Messerschmitt May 10 after hot pursuit by an RAF Defiant fighting plane. Air Secretary Sir Archibald Sinclair told the house of commons today.

There had been British reports that Hess was in correspondence with Hamilton before the flight to Scotland. Sinclair denied this.

"When Deputy Fuehrer Hess came down with an airplane in Scotland on May 10 he gave a false name and asked to see the Duke of Hamilton," the air secretary said.

"The Duke of Hamilton, being apprised by authorities, visited the prisoner in a hospital.

"Reveals Identity Hess then revealed for the first time his true identity, saying that he had seen the duke when he was at the Olympic games at Berlin in 1936.

"The duke did not recognize the prisoner and had never met the deputy fuehrer."

Cheers greeted this passage. The Sinclair statement, one of the most revealing official statements so far on the Hess case, thus contained a possible explanation of the bullet holes which the British found in the tail of Hess' wrecked Messerschmitt.

The British Defiant was "hot on the trail" of the Messerschmitt, following it in the darkness, when Hess bailed out, Sinclair said. He did not say, however, whether the Defiant fired on the Messerschmitt.

The Duke of Hamilton, premier Scottish peer and RAF squadron leader, for whom Hess is said to have asked when he was picked up, injured from his parachute jump, never met the deputy fuehrer before the night he confronted Hess as a prisoner of war, the air secretary said.

Didn't Recognize Prisoner He declared that Hamilton, 38-year-old "Sporting Duke," did not even "recognize the prisoner" when he faced him after obtaining leave from his RAF station.

This statement further heightened the mystery of Hess' coming. One of the German versions of the affair was that Hess hoped to make contact with Hamilton to further a hallucinatory peace plan.

There were reports following this that Hamilton had met Hess before the war on trips to Germany, notably the Olympic games in 1936.

Johnny Farcus has two school marbles championship medals now. He got the first one two years ago when he won the Prospect school championship as a sixth grader and he got the second this morning as he swept through eight straight games without a loss at the Junior High round robin.

Close runner-up in this morning's shooting was Jack Resatka, a student in 8D. Jack was every bit a match for Johnny on long shots but lacked his ability to stick in the ring and shoot 'em out from there. Jack's shooter always went flying right after the marble he knocked out and he failed to get a free shot.

MARTINIQUE SAFE FROM ATTACK, HULL

Secretary Describes Report As "German Inspired"

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 22.—Secretary Hull gave an implied assurance today that the French island of Martinique had no reason to fear any imminent United States action against it.

The secretary of state described as German or pro-German, inspired reports published in German-occupied France that Martinique officials had received orders to prepare for an American attack.

Hull asserted at his press conference that the situation at Martinique itself was unchanged, despite increasing evidence of French-German collaboration in Europe.

There have been no recent developments on the Caribbean island to change the situation, he said and he indicated no immediate concern was felt here.

The administration seemed to be waiting for formal word from Vichy as to the extent of collaboration with Germany before taking any definite step regarding French possessions in this hemisphere.

CITY ADVERTISES FIRE TRUCK BONDS

The city today advertised its proposed sale of $13,500 in bonds for the purchase of a new fire truck after several months' delay during which time the approval of the bonding company was being secured.

Sealed bids will be received at the office of City Auditor Karl Webster until noon Friday, June 13.

A certification that the money for the purchase is in fund will follow the sale of the bonds and receipt of an opinion from the firm of Squire, Sanders and Dempsey, Cleveland bonding attorneys, Solicitor Henry L. Reese explained.

The contract for furnishing a triple-action, 1,000-gallon booster pumper was awarded by the city board of control last November to the American LaFrance Foamite Corp. of Elmira, N. Y., on a bid of $13,450, one of five bids received. All other bids were lower.

The pumper, which is capable of pumping 1,000 gallons of water a minute, will carry equipment to include 24-foot extension and roof ladders, a 35-foot three-section aluminum ladder. The longest ladder now in use by the department measures 24 feet.

The department has three trucks at the present time, one 18 years old, another 12 and the "Old Robinson", as it is called, about 24 years old.

TRUCE IN RAVENNA AFL STRIKE FAILS

Unauthorized Walkout Still Continues Despite Agreement

(By Associated Press) A hitch developed today in a truce supposed to end an unauthorized strike of 5,000 AFL laborers at the $30,000,000 Ravenna shell-loading plant, and the men failed to return to work.

Laborers appeared outside the arsenal as if intending to resume work, but were still idle two hours after their regular starting time.

Captain Earl D. Payne, army public relations officer, said a plan had been approved earlier whereby strikers would return to their jobs for 10 days, pending consideration of demands for an increase in laborers' pay from 65 to 90 cents an hour.

Failure of the truce was not explained immediately.

The Wednesday morning walkout was termed "100 per cent unauthorized" by Kenneth Statler, business agent of the AFL International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers union. The union subsequently announced it would not support demands of any workers who failed to return under the truce.

The work stoppage was the second in two weeks at the plant, which was expected to start loading shells July 1. A recent walkout of AFL carpenters was settled with a new wage scale of $1.37 1/2 an hour, an increase of 25 cents.

TWO DIE IN RECORD SPRING HEAT WAVE

A late spring heat wave that peaks throughout most of Ohio probably will last another day.

While scattered showers brought relief to some lake region areas, the heat lingered elsewhere and the forecast predicted it would remain through Friday.

Cleveland, baked by record 90-degree heat yesterday, was cooled by thunderstorms during the night but the weather bureau expected the relief to be short-lived.

Two deaths were blamed indirectly on the heat. Delbert Ray Johnson, 9, went swimming and drowned at Springfield yesterday while the mercury stood at 94. In Columbus, where the reading of 91.5 set a new record for the day, 10-year-old James Nettleton fell from a raft and drowned in the Scioto river. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Nettleton.

Yesterday's highest reading was 95 Fremont. Cincinnati had a record for the date with a reading of 92, while Sandusky's 93 equaled the former mark. Youngstown's 93 set a new record, and 90 at Toledo matched a 71-year top for May 21.

The officials were impressed by the magnitude of the government's shell loading plant.

INVADERS GET FOOTHOLDS ON GREEK ISLAND

Gains Are Referred to As Isolated Successes In Sky War

ATTEMPTS AT SHORE LANDING REPELLED

Germans, Churchill Says, Are Paying Heavily In Manpower

(By Associated Press) LONDON, May 22.—German troops pouring from the sky on the third day of a mass aerial invasion of Crete have wrested two footholds from the Greek island's British defenders, the British acknowledged today.

Prime Minister Churchill informed the house of commons that Nazi paratroopers had taken the town of Canea, but that British troops still held the airport there.

The Middle East command in Cairo acknowledged that the town of Malemi was in Nazi hands.

Called Isolated Successes

Both reports, however, called the German gains only isolated successes in the fierce, guerrilla-like warfare against German soldiers dropping from the skies in transports and floating down by glider and parachute.

Both also said that attempts by the Germans to put supporting forces ashore had been frustrated.

From these accounts, the Germans appeared to be paying heavily, both at sea and ashore, to establish themselves on the island which the British have said they will defend "to the death."

Middle East headquarters said German casualties yesterday were higher even than on the first day of the assault, when the skies began raining down Nazis before dawn.

Although he prefaced his report as only "provisional," the prime minister declared the Germans had paid dearly for their local successes.

At the outset of an attempt in force to get German troops to Crete by water, he said one Nazi destroyer and at least two Greek boats, both probably containing troops, had been sunk.

Churchill declared the situation remained in hand generally, but he said "the fighting is continuing with intensity.... The Germans are using large numbers of airborne and paratrooper troops and these are being increased daily."

Occupied Airdrome

"At Malemi airdrome, 10 miles southwest of Canea," the prime minister disclosed, "it appears that the enemy are now in occupation."

ALL DIEDARDS ARE THANKFUL

If, as explained by the White House, advancing Thanksgiving one week did not help retail sales, there plainly was no reason for continuing the experiment. If a thing doesn't help business fovee on it, as New Dealers say, Diedards are properly aware of the fact the failure of retail sales to respond might have been blamed on them because they stubbornly continued to celebrate Thanksgiving on the later date, but it wasn't.

This is an overt sign of what is said to be a more charitable outlook on the perversity of diedards in general by the Roosevelt administration. They also are mindful of fiddling with the date of a cherished national holiday was done in the name of business, one of the few times business was appeased openly by the New Deal. Most of all, the diedards are perked up by proof that President Roosevelt meant what he said when he did say—a long time ago—that he intended to try a lot of new ideas and would cheerfully discard all the ones that didn't work. Finally, an idea has been discarded.

There are no ill feelings. Everything can be regular from now on. Thanksgiving can be celebrated without misgivings the fourth Thursday in November after 1941. All celebrants rushing the date henceforth will be imposters. Their status has been officially affirmed.

REHEARSAL

As the British and Germans both know, the aerial invasion of Crete illustrates the possibility of a similar invasion of the United Kingdom. Whatever the importance of the adventure otherwise, it was a dress rehearsal in miniature for what still must be regarded as the principal eventuality of the Battle of Britain.

No one is surprised that the Nazi parachute troops landed successfully in Crete. There was nothing to stop them. They would encounter more resistance in Britain, but if Rudolf Hess can do it 50,000 younger men can do it better. They will not become prisoners of David McLeans armed with pitchforks. They will not break their ankles. They will be enemies inside the fortress.

They will be free to cut wires, set fires, blow up bridges, and commit all the damage within the power of hostile individuals. Perhaps they will be wearing British uniforms when they arrive; doubtless they will be disguised. Many, perhaps a majority, perhaps all will be killed, but unless they can be killed immediately they will have served their purpose, which is to hamper British resistance at the climax of the struggle to defend the island.

WHEN THE ELEPHANT PUSHES

It has been one year since President Roosevelt stated officially what his countrymen knew to be necessary—that the United States needed to arm itself extensively to guarantee its survival in a chaotic world. There have been many reports on the progress of the armament effort from time to time, but perhaps none more comprehensive than the survey made by the Wall Street Journal and published on the first anniversary of the President's outline of an adequate armament policy.

"Actual results . . . have been remarkable in the face of obstacles that only a few months ago seemed insuperable," the Journal concludes. "Much more is to be done . . . but the number of tanks, the yards of cloth, the number and types of engines and the amount of explosives that have been produced is less important than is the manifestation of a great democratic people drawing itself together for the sacrifice that is painted in these pages."

The detailed description of the sacrifice fills a large supplement to the Journal's regular edition. There is a wealth of information, but the effect of the whole is to convince the reader that anyone who sells America short on the prospect of adequate production for adequate defense is a sucker. This is the country that has so much productive capacity its troubles have been blamed on over-production. This is the country whose young men and women don't have to be propelled into the machine age by war; they have grown up with machinery. This is the country that taught the rest of the world not only the technique but the philosophy of mass production. America alone has been able to rise above the galling restraint of economic scarcity.

The United States is like an elephant pushing a circus wagon out of a rut. It is big enough and powerful enough to make a big job look easy. The defense production problem will be handled. At the end of a year as much progress has been made as any other nation would make in three or four years. There is much to be done, but there is no reason to be dissatisfied with results already accomplished. America's ability to produce is not in doubt. It never has been in doubt.

WHEN DO WE START?

There is no argument on one thing at least. Everybody agrees that inflation would be a bad thing. It should be avoided at any cost. Inflation does not pay. It is a hangover and a pain in the neck. No one wants inflation.

Knowing how the people feel about it and feeling that way about it, themselves, government officials and economists have been taking measures to combat inflation. These measures, as in the case of defense bonds and monetary controls, have been widely publicized. The people have been told that the government will do everything possible to prevent inflation.

The people want to believe, of course, that the government means this. Whether their comprehension of the measures is limited to nodding assent when a treasury expert says excess profits should be taxed to the hilt, or whether they have struggled to digest learned articles about the ins and outs of operating a planned economy, they're for the anti-inflationists 100 per cent.

But the people, signs to the contrary notwithstanding, are not completely foolish. Their residue of common sense warns them that the place to go to work on inflation is at the source, not the finish. As long as everybody proceeds on the assumption that the lid is off and the sky is the limit there is bound to be inflation. Inflation isn't a plot cooked up by a handful of shrewd operators, but a process of everybody trying to get all he can while the getting's good—wage earners, farmers, middlemen, landlords—the whole kit and kaboodle.

It is reasonably plain to the people who have given the matter a second thought, even if it isn't plain to all the politicians, that one of the sources of inflation is the rising movement of wage rates. It is further plain that inasmuch as the government seems to be in favor of this, at least to the extent that demands for higher wage rates are made with the moral support of government, the government is encouraging the very thing it has promised to check. If anything actually is going to be done to repress inflation, it would seem to be about time to get started. Sitting on the lid after it has been blown off would be a good trick, but no one's going to be able to do it.

Sixteen friends of A. H. Fuhs gave him a complete surprise Wednesday evening at his home on Roosevelt ave.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, May 23.

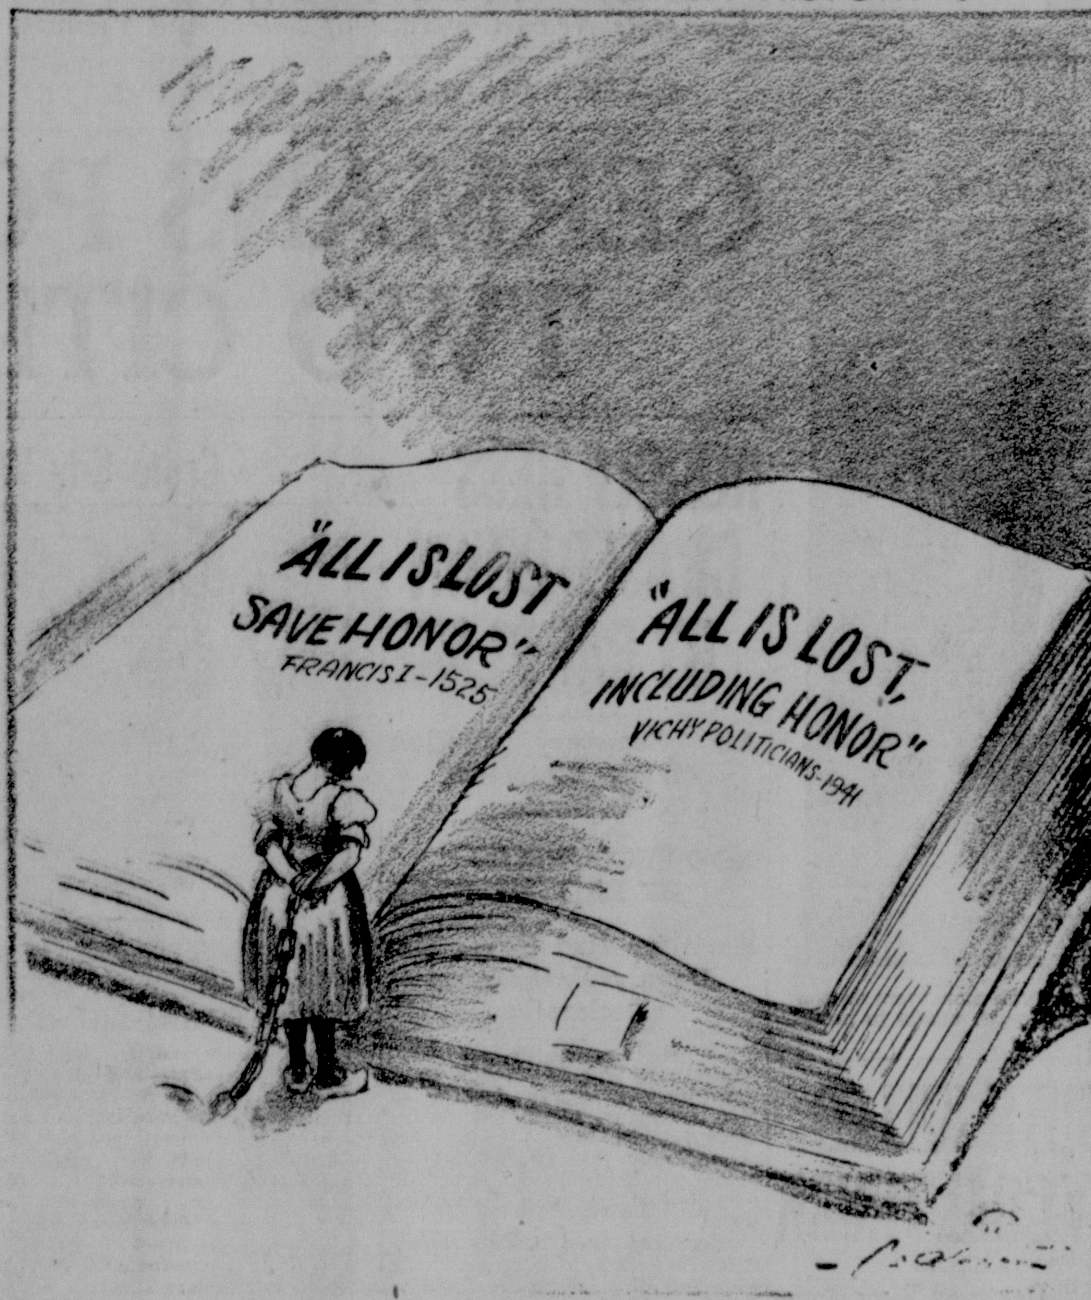

QUICKENED energies, high hopes and greatly stimulated optimism in the direction of new and expansive propositions may be read from this day's lunar as well as mutual operations. It should be a time for making a direct and powerful attack on such major projects or objectives although there is urgent demand for more than ordinary vigilance against fraud, trickery, pernicious entanglements and subtle and crafty attacks on profits, personality and integrity. Snares and double-dealing abound where least suspected, possibly through perfidy of public agents, or when traveling, through communications or correspondence. With precaution there should be unlooked-for success and fine cooperation from those in power.

If It's Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is should be on the eve of a year of excellent progress with some surprising de-lucement to advance the position, increase finance and credit as well as bring unexpected benefits of large and important scope. New plans and projects should flourish, although there is a strong menace of treachery, fraud, sinister intrigue and misrepresentation from sources least suspected. Beware expressly of public agents, servants, communication or transportation officials. Precaution, keen judgment and hard work should pay heavy dividends.

A child born on this day should have a steady and shrewd mind, with much stability of character, yet may be intrigued into dubious entanglements through fraud.

TWO PAGES OF FRENCH HISTORY

VARIETY IS ADDED TO FRACTURES

Use of Autos Complicates Things, Says Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Modern civilization has added a number of characteristic traumatic diseases to the text books. In the old days about the only common fractures were those from slipping on the sidewalk or street, or being thrown from a horse or buggy. The automobile has added a number of characteristic injuries. We have "bumper fractures" of the bones of the foreleg, and also "dashboard" knees and hips, and also "windshield faces."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The modern trend of widening cars, plus the habit of many drivers of resting the left arm on the window ledge, has now added another injury which is extremely mutilating and serious, to-wit: "car window elbows." These are becoming increasingly common and they are quite serious because the results, even under ideal treatment, often leave a severely disabled arm.

Severe Fracture
The car window elbow is a severe compound explosive type of fracture which breaks the bones of the forearm several inches below the elbow. Injury to nerves, blood vessels and muscles is common. The usual history is that of a man about 30 years old, driving with his left arm resting on the window frame. As he passes a wide truck or another car too closely, he experiences a severe, stinging pain in the elbow. He is stunned to find that he is seriously mutilated, with from one to several wounds, from which broken parts of bone protrude. The arm is useless and he is soon in profound shock unless medical treatment is immediately available.

In a series of 32 cases treated by Dr. Howard B. Shorbe of Oklahoma City, Okla., the average age of the patient was 27 years. The left arm was injured in 25 patients and the right in seven; 27 patients stated that they had been sideswiped by another car; 12 were injured by the overhanging edge of a wide truck; two of the right arms were injured by striking the side of a bridge; one struck a horse, another a mule, and another came too close to a corner. One man's arm was struck as he signaled to make a left turn. Of the 32 cases, 24 were compound fractures, which means that the bone was splintered and protruded through the skin. These are the most severe type of fractures, usually resulting in infection.

Difficult Cases
Sometimes the bones of the hand are fractured also due to jerking the hand from the wheel and striking it against the side of the car.

The seriousness of the situation may be judged from the fact that in this series there were 13 nerve injuries, resulting in more or less paralysis of the muscles of the forearm. They are very difficult cases to treat and are likely to result unfavorably in a high percentage of cases.

Of the 32 cases reported four were reported to have an excellent result, five a good result, nine a fair result, four a poor result, and eight patients had an entirely useless extremity. There was one death.

Early treatment by an experienced surgeon is of primary importance in obtaining a good result.

But certainly in this case more than any other, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and the prevention consists in over-ing it against the side of the car.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. W. H.: "A manufacturer of trusses sends me circular letters, and in one of the letters was the following statement: 'Hernia recurs in seven out of 10 cases treated by surgery.' Will you please answer in your column if this statement is true?"

Answer: Three per cent of oblique hernias and 15 per cent of direct hernias is the rate of recurrence with good surgical technique. Seventy-five per cent of all inguinal hernias are oblique and 25 per cent are direct, so not more than one in 10 of all hernias should recur.

M. S.: "Can cancer be determined by a blood test?"

Answer: No. In surface cancer, the diagnosis should be made by removing a part of the growth and examining it under the microscope (biopsy). In internal cancers the diagnosis is made by the X-ray, history and physical examination.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Zamzam Story Recalls Another

Mystery concerning the fate of the Egyptian liner Zamzam with 322 persons, including 138 U. S. citizens aboard, believed solved with a German announcement that the ship was sunk and all aboard saved, recalls the case of the Cyclops, a U. S. collier, in the World war. The Cyclops, reported missing March 4, 1918, with 293 persons aboard, was never heard from after that. It was bringing a cargo of manganese from Brazil. One theory was that it was the victim of a German submarine or raider. Another was that it was the victim of a storm.

Warning From Syria

General Henri Dentz

In a radio speech from Beirut, Syria, General Henri Dentz, French high commissioner for Syria, warned the British that French forces under his command are "ready to meet force with force" unless Britain ceases her attacks on Syrian territory. He said that the landing of a few German planes in Syria while "in transit" cannot justify Britain's aggressive attacks.

Alabama Girl Is Bride Of Lieut. Gordon Keyes, Salem

Miss Nola Margaret Uim, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seaborn William Skinner of Tuscaloosa, Ala., became the bride of Lieut. Gordon Frank Keyes, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon F. Keyes, Sr., of Salem, in a ceremony Saturday afternoon in the First Methodist church at Tuscaloosa, Ala. The ceremony was attended by many friends and relatives of the couple.

Palms and ferns were used at the altar as a background for floor standards filled with calla lilies, white gladioli and sprays of baby's breath. Illuminating the scene were cathedral candles in seven-branch candelabra, entwined with ropes of smilax.

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, wore a gown of white marquisette with a long fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline, bishop sleeves and a full skirt ending in a short train. She wore a finger tip veil arranged in a halo of pearls and orange blossoms. Her flowers were white orchids showered with stephanotis.

Music Precedes Ceremony

A program of organ, violin and vocal music preceded the ceremony, solemnized by Dr. Walter Scott.

Miss Martha Jean Keyes of Salem, sister of the groom, and Miss Mary Claire Price of Evergreen, Ala., were bridesmaids, wearing frocks of seafonn green marquisette and sash of the same material. They carried bouquets of deep yellow roses tied with embroidered ribbons.

William K. Gibson of Youngstown served as best man. The ushers were Lieut. Gregory Skinner of Ft. Benning, Ga., and James Chaney, Tuscaloosa.

Mrs. Skinner wore a rose lace gown with matching hat and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. Keyes, mother of the groom, was dressed in powder blue lace with accessories and a spray of gardenias.

Mrs. Harold Jensen, mother of the bride, wore a robin's egg blue marquisette with pink accessories and gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Skinner entertained the bridal party, members of the immediate families and out-of-town guests at a reception at their home after the ceremony.

The couple and members of the two families received. The table with refreshments were served held a three-tier wedding cake and white tapers in silver candelabra.

On Wedding Trip

After the reception, Lieut. and Mrs. Keyes left for an extended wedding trip. For traveling, Mrs. Keyes wore a navy blue sheer frock with white jacket and navy accessories and an orchid corsage.

After June 1, the couple will be at home at the Meashey apartments, Elizabethtown, Pa.

The bride attended the University of Alabama where she was a member of the Chi Omega sorority.

Lieut. Keyes, graduated from Salem High school in 1933, attended the University of Michigan where he was a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He was graduated from the U. S. army air corps school at Kelley Field, Texas, and from Boeing school of Aeronautics in Oakland, Calif. SHIRTMAKER FROCKS FAVORITES WITH CAREER GIRLS

Shirtmaker frocks have long been favorites with the career girl because they are the perfect answer to what to wear at the office. They are well tailored, smart and practical. This season they have gone in for style variations, with new necklines, variety in pocket treatments, fly-front closings. The polka dotted silk crepe frock, left, is a classic. It has a hand-drawn linen collar and cuffs, while vertical tucks in the bodice are slenderizing, and all-around pleats add chic. The dress, center, shows the fly-front closing all the way down the length. This dress has breast pockets with tabbed flaps, and the elastic belt has a leather front. Anne Gwynne, right, is modeling a style that is smart for spectator sports and street wear—a beige Rambler cloth collarless shirtmaker dress with natural button trim and matching belt with copper buckle.

NEW LOW HIT BY APRIL RELIEF TOTAL

COLUMBUS, May 22.—April relief expenditures in Ohio totaled $1,599,415, a reduction of $203,773 from March and the lowest monthly figure since the welfare department took over supervision of relief administration in January, 1939. Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood announced today.

Sherwood certified $675,000, or 42.2 per cent, to local subdivisions as reimbursement for April costs. He had an additional grant of $219,508, to be made when the biennial appropriation bill passed last week by the legislature becomes effective, would raise the state's contributions to 50 per cent for the first four months of the year.

The April relief costs were $522,508 under April, 1940, and brought the total for the year to $7,188,635 compared to $9,476,897 for the first four months of 1940.

The decline was attributed by Sherwood to the upswing in industrial activity due to defense work and the mildness of the past winter compared with severe weather which forced postponement of many WPA projects last year.

Sherwood said there were 35,000 fewer relief cases during the past month than a year ago. The caseload was 65,564 compared with 100,609.

The welfare department must place its O. K. on the program before it can be put into operation in the county. East Liverpool is the only city in Columbiana county which has not approved the plan. Creation of an operating fund, in advance, is reported to be the major obstacle in the pottery city.

Profit Waiting

KANSAS CITY—Several months ago a slight, gray-haired woman who said she needed the money sold Guy M. Babst a pair of antique earrings for $20.

Each was set with a clear red stone and a small diamond. The woman said they were heirlooms. She didn't know their value.

Babst, an antique dealer, put them in a display case and forgot about them. Another dealer saw the set, identified the stones as rubies and said it was worth $3,000. A third said the pieces were not worth that much, but seemed eager to buy them.

Babst says he won't sell them until he finds the woman so she can share any profit.

His wife, Princess Irene of Greece, is the queen. She is a sister of King George II of Greece, now a fugitive from the Axis armies. According to reports Italy may get a part of the Dalmatian coast (A) and a corner of northern Yugoslavia (B); Germany would absorb Carniola in the north (C) and Hungary would take territory along the Rumanian border (D).

DISABLED VETERANS PREPARE POPPIES

Approximately 50,000 poppies are being made each week by disabled ex-service men, patients in U. S. Veterans' hospitals throughout the country, in preparation for the 20th annual Buddy poppy sale of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Saturday.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars inaugurated this method of manufacture some years ago, with the cooperation of the United States Veterans Administration and the plan has proved of signal benefit to these men, especially in the occupational therapy treatment for those who are nervously or mentally affected.

Buddy poppy is the name chosen by the men themselves. Each flower carries a copyrighted green label which guarantees to the public that these poppies were fashioned by the hands of disabled veterans. The entire proceeds of the sale are devoted to welfare and relief work for ex-service men and their families, including an allotment to the V. F. W. National home for widows and orphans of ex-service men.

Braid Revival

The coat sketched at right is of chiffon-weight navy blue serge, trimmed in red soutache braid and worn over a matching dress, also braid-trimmed.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

AMONG the numerous fashion comebacks of the season is the revival of old-fashioned soutache braid as trimming for high-style dressmaker suits and coats. Some of the smartest coats shown for town wear are trimmed in an all-over design of braid curly-cues. Others use the braid in the manner once restricted to a band-master's uniform. It's a smart touch in step with the lush trend of the times.

of the airdrome and of the area to the west of it, but the airdrome is still under our fire."

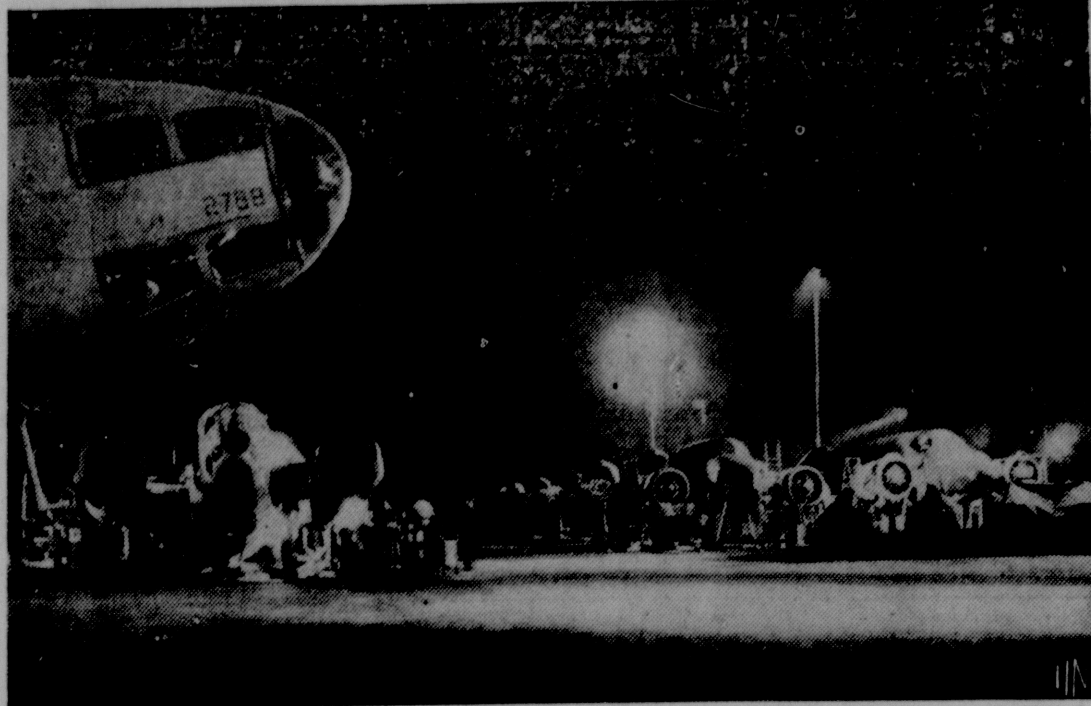

Churchill told parliament: "Last night, the enemy began to try sea-borne landings. "A convoy making for Crete was intercepted by our naval forces. Two transports and a number of Calques—Greek boats—which probably contained troops intended for landing operations were sunk and an enemy destroyer was also sunk, but during the course of today very much larger attempts have been made by the enemy to carry an army into Crete and a convoy of 29 vessels was discerned by our forces this morning and was presumably attacked by them."

At the same time, the RAF Middle East communique said in Cairo that British bombers had renewed heavy raids on German-held Greek airdromes, springboards for the aerial assault on Crete.

British military men expressed belief that the worst of the struggle for the Mediterranean island stronghold, seat of Greek King George II's government since its flight from Athens, still was to come.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

London Aflame After That Terrible Air Raid

Just arrived in the U. S. via Clipper ship, this original picture of London burning was taken after the terrific German air raid on the British capital two weeks ago. A raging inferno wiped out building after building although London firemen battled valiantly to stem the flames. The picture is by News of the Day Newsreel.

LET'S TAKE THE LID OFF THE SECRET OF GOOD COFFEE!

Why make a mystery of successful coffee? There are just a few simple facts to keep in mind—then you'll brew coffee of magnificent flavor every time. First, you must start with fine coffee beans. That's why A&P has its own resident buyers in South America to buy the pick of the plantations.

Next, after skillful blending, coffee must be roasted precisely to the flavor peak. That's why A&P developed its own exclusive flavor-control ovens that work automatically, and roast each batch to just the same perfection.

Then, coffee must reach you fresh... so A&P Coffee is sent to our stores only in the flavor-sealed bean, and ground only at the moment of purchase.

Finally, coffee beans must be ground exactly right for each type of coffee pot, or else you lose much of the fine full flavor for which you are paying. Hence, A&P Coffee is Custom Ground for your own coffee-maker. You get all the fresh, magnificent flavor of coffee at its best.

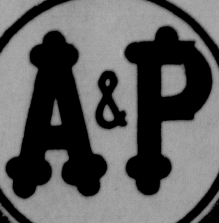

There are three A&P Coffee blends to suit every taste; Eight O'Clock, mild and mellow; Red Circle, rich and full-bodied and Bokar, vigorous and winery. Try your favorite blend today.

County Coaches Fail To Reach Decision In Lisbon Meeting

WILL LET SCHOOL HEADS ARBITRATE TRACK MEET TIFF

County Superintendents To Decide Claims Arising At Palestine

Failing to reach a decision on various disputed points in the Columbus county meet, at East Palestine recently, county coaches and faculty managers last night threw the controversy into the collective laps of ten county school superintendents.

An appeal to State Athletic Commissioner Townsend brought a reply that the county meet was out of his jurisdiction since it is governed by a separate list of rules and regulations determined by the participating schools.

Will Revamp Charter

To clear up much of the uncertainty that arises through the continued use of an outdated constitution, the coaches elected a committee to revamp and modernize the county charter. The committee, which includes Earl Vanaman of Lisbon High school as president, Coach Charles Mathers of Leetonia as vice president, and C. W. Huntziger of Wellsburg as secretary-treasurer, will also set up a code of standards and regulations for further county meets. Huntziger will contact the school superintendents and inform them of the coaches' decision.

The coaches agreed to hold next year's track and field meet at Lisbon High stadium if arrangements can be made.

Irregularities at E. Palestine

The meeting arose as a result of irregularities in the conduct of this year's meet at East Palestine one week ago. The main point of argument was the right of Bill Scally, East Palestine track star, to enter four field events. County regulations permit an athlete's entry in only three track or three field events, coaches declared. Other unusual features of the meet included a discuss with finger grips and pacing of runners in track events. Salem Track Coach Fred Cope also protested the awarding of the high point trophy to Scally, claiming it for Elliott Hansell who turned in a larger score than Scally in the first three events in which each participated. This last point will also be placed before the superintendents when they arbitrate.

LOUIS, BAER READY FOR TITLE BATTLE

WASHINGTON, May 22. — The training grind ended, Champion Joe Louis and Challenger Buddy Baer leaped today but each summoned up enough energy to make advance claims to a knockout victory in tomorrow night's 15-round heavyweight championship bout.

"Baer will be as tough as anyone I've fought, but I expect to knock him out in less than 10 rounds," Louis said.

"Buddy is big, and can punch, so it ought to be a good battle," said Buddy, training at nearby Olney, Md., came this comment: "I'm in better condition than ever before. I think I can get to Louis with my right, and if I do I'll be the next champion."

In the popular mind, Louis ruled about a 6-1 choice to defend his crown successfully for the 17th time. There was little wagering in evidence, however, but the betting market may pick up with the arrival of New York fans. Promoter Mike Jacobs looked for an invasion from Manhattan, numbering about 6,000.

The champion and challenger will weigh at the offices of the District of Columbia boxing commission tomorrow.

PHILADELPHIA—It took firemen to retrieve Policeman George Dougherty who had "retrieved" Mrs. Daniel F. Fairbanks' retriever, "Rowdy," from a storm sewer. Dougherty went to the rescue when the cocker spaniel darted into the open sewer to get a ball which some boys had tossed.

The pit was 11 feet deep, and after the officer handed up the dog, he had to ask for firemen to lower a ladder so he could get out.

Capel and Stewart Shine As Salemites Drop Third Match

Salem High's tennis squad dropped its third match of the current season when it was defeated by Warren, 4-3, in a Mahoning Valley Tennis League match on the Volney Rogers courts in Youngstown, Tuesday night.

The Warrenites copped three of the singles and one doubles match in their triumph. Ritchie, playing No. 1 man, was soundly trounced by Claggett, 6-0, 6-0. Capel chalked up a win over Spencer, 6-4, 6-2, but Baile lost his match to Moon, 6-4, 6-1. Stewart and Conlon tangled in the longest match of the day with Stewart finally winning out 2-6, 11-9, 6-2, after a grueling battle. Bollinger was taken by Hart, 6-0, 6-4, in the last of the singles matches.

In the first doubles match, Capel and Ritchie were beaten by a Spencer-Moon combine, 6-4, 6-4. Stewart and Baile came through with a 7-5, 6-1 triumph over Nelson and Miller in the day's last match.

The Rayen match to be played in Youngstown tonight was cancelled when Rayen wrote it could not play here. As there is not an open date in the Salem schedule, Rayen will not be met on the courts this year. The Quakers' next match is scheduled for Saturday when Newark will come here to meet the Salem team. The record for the season now stands at 8 wins and 3 losses.

ST. LOUIS REGAINS LEAGUE LEAD BY BEATING DODGERS

Triplett Gets Four Hits To Lead Redbirds In 9-3 Win

(By Associated Press)
The St. Louis Cardinals, carving with as much delicacy as so many carpenters, have completed a serious operation for the removal of excess wind from the Brooklyn Dodgers. Even a victory in today's final game of the western trip wouldn't save Brooklyn from returning to the banks of the Goanus canal in second place in the National league.

The Cardinals clubbed the Dodgers into their fifth straight defeat yesterday 9-3 with vicious 13-hit assault. The chief slasher was a young outfielder named Herman Cooke Triplett, who treated the Cardinals to a home run, a single with the bases loaded, and an extra-base double and single.

Tribe Comes Back
While the Cardinals were emphasizing their intention of controlling the senior circuit, Bob Feller pitched the Cleveland Indians back to victory and security in the American league.

He tangled with Southpaw Ken Chase of the Washington Senators in a sensational pitching duel that went scoreless for ten innings before the Indians exploded four runs in the 11th to win 4-0. Feller allowed only four hits in scoring his eighth victory and first shut-out of the season.

The five-game winning streak of the second place Chicago White Sox was snapped by the Philadelphia Athletics, whose 7-6 victory was their fourth in a row.

The New York Yankees knocked the Detroit Tigers out of third place with a ten-inning 5-4 victory achieved on a two-run rally that tied the score in the ninth and Red Rolfe's triple scoring the winning run in the tenth.

Browns' Homers Fall
The St. Louis Browns banded out four home runs in the first five innings but were beaten 8-6 by the Boston Red Sox.

The New York Giants solved the pitching magic of Bucky Walters and cuffed the Cincinnati Reds 6-3 in ten innings. After being shut out for eight frames, they bunched three doubles and a single to tie the count in the ninth and shoved over three more runs in the tenth. Three pitchers held the Reds to six hits.

The Pittsburgh Pirates spotted the Boston Braves a four-run lead in the first inning and then battled back to an 8-4 decision. The Cubs pounced on the Phillies 7-3.

SMITH SEEKS 4TH WIN AGAINST NATS

WASHINGTON, May 22.—If Al Smith, Cleveland southpaw, doesn't beat Washington today it won't be because he has been overworked.

Smith hasn't pitched for exactly two weeks, losing to New York 5 to 4 in his last start. His season record is three victories and two defeats. The Senators selected Sid Hudson, showing three triumphs and three setbacks, to oppose the crafty pitcher.

Bob Feller, who seems always to be just about as tough as has to be to win, shut out Washington with four blows yesterday to take a 11-inning battle, 4 to 0. The decision snapped a three-game losing streak and widened Cleveland's

ALLIANCE SEEKS BASEBALL CROWN

ALLIANCE, May 22.—Riding the crest of a 12-game winning streak and victorious in the sectional and district tournament championships, Alliance's Aviators will invade Columbus today primed for the state Class A scholastic baseball tourney Friday and Saturday.

The Aviators have a well rounded four man pitching corps consisting of Earl Branfield, Ray Bowlers, Tom Paulkner and Andy Vuksta, Branfield, ace right-hander, is likely to draw the opening assignment.

In 13 games Alliance has compiled a team batting average of .364. The Aviators lost their championship raised to Canton McKinley but later beat the Bulldogs in the midst of a 12 game victory streak. The team is coached by Noyes McVay, former Ohio State university infielder.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, May 22.—(The Special News Service)—Ted Williams is feuding with the Beantown press again which is the inside on why the scribes are barred from the clubhouse... Articles for the Sammy Angott-Lew Jenkins title scrap will be signed in Pittsburgh Monday... Fritz Crisler estimates Tommy Harmon's football fame will net him 100 grand, give or take a few hundred $.... Immediately after riding Whirlaway to victories in the Derby and Preakness, Jockey Eddie Arcaro bought $75 wrist watches for Pinky Brown, the colt's exercise boy, and for Mr. and Mrs. Jim Galver of the Green-tree stable for which Eddie is a contract rider.

Today's Guest Star

Lester Bromberg, N. Y. World-Telegram: "When Sammy Angott, N. B. A. lightweight champ, and Lew Jenkins, New York title-holder, meet in September, Angott will be fighting for 17½ per cent of the gate, Jenkins for 17½.... which gives you an idea of who thinks who is the real champ."

Sammy Sneed's withdrawal from the Goodall round robin was tough on the guy who paid $400 for Sambo in the Calcutta pool.... Del Baker is trying to get Buck Newson's weight down by making him chase fungoes for half an hour a day. Del personally smacks 'em out and he takes good care to see they're always just out of Bobo's reach.... Joe Vosmik is known as the champion snorer of the National league, but Dixie Walker, his roommate, solves the problem by stuffing his ears with cotton every night.

Marty McManus, manager of the Browns' San Antonio farm, is the man being talked as Fred Haney's successor if the team doesn't start going somewhere—and soon. (Personally, we doubt if anybody could get any more out of that club than Haney has).... Ringside pews at next month's Conn-Louis tea party will set you back $27.... Until yesterday Bob Feller has shut out every club in the American league except Washington—and it took him 11 heats to blank the Senators.... And so think it wasn't two weeks ago that one of the Brooklyn papers referred to the Giants as "them bums!"

first-place lead over Chicago to three games.

The Indians got to Ken Chase for 10 hits, but had to wait until the second extra inning before they could bunch enough singles to score.

The Redskins went into the final game of their eastern trip with six victories and three setbacks, all the defeats coming at the hands of Philadelphia.

Manager Roger Peckinpaugh announced that Al Milnar would pitch against St. Louis tomorrow night in Cleveland.

RING FOES CLASH TONIGHT IN N. B. A. LIGHT HEAVY TILT

Controversy Still Rages As To Champion of 175-Lb. Class

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, May 22.—The prophet without honor had nothing on Anton Christofordis and Gus Lesnevich in their fight tonight.

The Greek and the Russian from Jersey bang each other around Madison Square Garden's ring in a bout that is recognized for the world light heavyweight championship in most every place except where they're fighting.

Just how this came about, the fellows that run those old feuding partners, the National Boxing association and the New York State Athletic commission, can't exactly tell you. Promoter Mike Jacobs turned the trick, and he expects some 10,000 fans to watch it happen—after they kick in to a gross pot of about $25,000 of course.

It's a Long Story

It's much too long a story to explain in detail. It started when the N. B. A. took its title blessing from Billy Conn last winter and matched Christofordis and Mello Bettina, the ex-champ, in Cleveland, with the stipulation that the winner would be recognized as head man, but would have to meet Lesnevich in a few weeks.

Of course, the NBA expected this tussle would come off somewhere in its own territory. But Uncle Mike already had first call on Lesnevich's services, a hangover from Gus' two previous futile attempts to win the 175-pound crown from Conn. So Gus couldn't fight for any promoter but Mike, who doesn't have NBA territory as a field of operation, but who has to fill his dates in the Garden first.

Cold Shoulder From Cleveland
At that, Uncle Mike might have sent the Lesnevich-Christofordis fuss into Cleveland or some other NBA spot, but the boys in the Ohio city gave him the chill shoulder on another matter—his suggestion to hold the Joe Louis-Tony Musto brawl there. This turned out to be a better than fair attraction for St. Louis, but Cleveland didn't want it. So Promoter Jacobs figured if they didn't want one, why bother to propose the other.

The New York commission as well as California and Pennsylvania meantime, still recognize Conn as the champion, inasmuch as no other light-weight has ever come close to beating Billy Boy in a ring.

The NBA is more or less forced to look upon tonight's wait as a title affair, while the New York commission only regards it as the first in a series of two to decide the new champion.

"Lover Come Back"

by BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE
"Sure, the net was cut," Kathleen agreed, unconcerned. "But nobody is blaming you, Miss Sondra. Captain Reynall knows—"

"Was Captain Reynall here when it happened?"

"No. The Forest Man came in last night, and he and the boss left together on the Baltic, several hours before Chris came sneaking up here in his seine skiff."

"Then we're too late—you've lost all your fish!"

"No, Miss Sondra. Last week, when most of the fish worked into a narrow arm further up the lagoon, the boss had us stretch another net up there to hold them. He's a hard man to catch napping, the boss is. So about all Mr. Squarehead Sandvik got this morning was a cold bath and—"

"He shifted his Winchester suggestively—a hot reception."

"You—Kathleen!" Liane's low voice carried the whiplash of authority. "Was there shooting?"

Kathleen gave her a smoky, amused glance from under drooping lids. "Sure, there was shooting. And one of my 30-30's smacked into something that sounded like Norwegian, to me!"

In a flash Liane was out of the boat and close beside the Indian, the needle point of the long marlin-spike pressed against the big white C on his sweater. "Don't move, you Thinget dog, or I'll split you like a rabbit! The truth now—where's Chris? What have you done to him?"

Kathleen stood, suddenly pale and rigid, his gaze lifting slowly from the marlin-spike to Liane's blazing eyes. "He's not hurt—not much, anyway. I saw him climb back aboard the Tanya. They—they're anchored just around the next point."

"Slowly, Liane, backed away and resumed her place in the boat, still suggestively fingering the marlin-spike. Sondra started her engine, and addressed the immobile Kathleen."

"Tell Captain Reynall, for me, there will be no more work like—"

She nodded toward the net. "—Like that, from the O'Moore. Tell him I shall see to that, personally."

As the Spindrift slipped away from shore, Liane shouted at Kathleen, "You'd better pray your aim was bad, you siwash! I'm going to find Chris, and if you've harmed him—"

She drew a finger slowly across her throat.

The two girls found the Tanya anchored around the point, as Kathleen had said. Chris, stripped to the waist and grinning sheepishly, stood by the rail to receive them. A stained bandage was twisted clumsily about his right shoulder and arm.

"Chris—darling!" The Spindrift rocked as Liane sprang up, both arms extended. "Get back into bed, you dumb imbecile! Wait till I—"

Her flying leap to the Tanya's deck sent the Spindrift heeling off so that Sondra had to back and fill to get alongside again. By the time she got aboard, Liane had Chris stretched on the pilothouse bunk, the cook and a deck hand scurrying with hot water, the ship's first-aid kit open, and her own hands dipped in an antiseptic solution.

"Aw, it's only a scratch," Chris was protesting. "Just—"

"Shut up, and hold still!" snapped Liane. "You haven't sense enough to know whether you're hurt or not, you blundering ape!"

To Sondra's eyes, the flesh wound in the thick muscles of Chris's bared upper arm seemed considerable more than a scratch. But Liane was working over it with almost professional dexterity, and seeming unconcern. "Mm-m-m—" she commented. "Could have been worse, certainly. If that slug had— Oh—oh!" Her voice suddenly cracked and she bent her face against the firm white flesh of the big skipper's bared shoulder. "Oh, Chris," she blubbered, between laughter and tears. "You—darling—brainless—bull-headed baby! If I ever let you out of my sight again, I—I hope somebody shoots me!"

Chris, grinning foolishly, lifted one huge paw awkwardly patted her dark head.

Sondra slipped out on deck. She was smiling, but there was a lump in her throat, and a hollow sense of loneliness in her heart.

Some time after breakfast, Chris came out and cast an appraising look over sea and sky. "Wind's dying down," he said.

He cleared his throat uneasily, and lowered his voice to an apologetic growl at Sondra's side. "I—ummm, I'm sorry, Miss Sondra, about last night. You see—"

He shuffled his feet and twitched his wounded shoulder. "Well, I knew the Cap'n was in a bad hole for fish. I guess I just went kinda crazy."

"Okay, Chris," Sondra replied evenly. "Only— we won't have any more of that kind of fishing, skipper. Dynamite will tell you the same after he gets back—and I've had a talk with him. Understood?"

Chris nodded morosely. The wheelhouse clock chimed three bells, and he scowled at it through the open window. "Nine-thirty," he growled. "I'll bet he's in Juneau right now, trying to argue Thomas out of enough fish to keep that Starbuck contract filled."

But Captain O'Moore at that moment was finding himself concerned with a matter far more serious than any lack of fish.

Entering Taku Harbor on the Windflower, he had found the Pelley berthed opposite the Princess Julia at the cannery wharf, and was mildly surprised to see Mayes and one of his assistants standing with Captain McGrath on the Canadian liner's bridge. He was more surprised when, boarding the liner with Kemp's box under his arm, he found Captain McGrath and the two scientists waiting, grave-faced, at the head of the gangplank. But what followed swiftly thereafter left him nothing less than flabbergasted.

"Ahoy, Jerry!" he greeted his old friend. "Here's a small box I'd like you to carry to Vancouver for me. The name and all is there."

Sadly, Captain McGrath took the box and passed it to Doctor Mayes. Mayes after one glance at its contents, spoke to his assistant. "Get a couple of can openers and we'll see what's inside these tins."

"Belay, there!" O'Moore protested. "Ye can't be openin' those tins, Doctor. 'Tis a special birthday pack, no less."

"A very special pack, I suspect, Captain," Mayes replied grimly. "Sorry to have been temporarily under false colors with you, sir. I'm Lieutenant Mayes, of U. S. Naval Intelligence, and these tins—Ah!"

He snatched a can opener from his assistant, and began ripping open the flat oval tins. Several contained herring, and nothing else. But out of four he fished envelopes of heavy oiled silk from under a thin layer of paraffin wax.

Mayes shot a quick look along the deserted deck. "We'd best get inside with these, before your passengers start coming back aboard, Captain McGrath." In the master's stateroom he spread the contents of the envelopes on a table and surveyed them with a dour smile.

"War plans," he snapped. "The whole Sitka district in minute detail. Look! Supply and ammunition bases—airplane landing fields—concentration areas for submarines—all neatly plotted and numbered. And these—"

He ruffled a dozen onionskin pages, thickly typed with odd-looking characters. "These will doubtless prove interesting when we get them translated from the Kati-Kani." He straightened and ran a triumphant eye around the table.

"A very special pack—eh, Captain O'Moore?"

"Heavenly days—and meself smugglin' them out!" breathed the captain incredulously. "Doctor—Lieutenant—may she—Saints bear witness, I had no idea at all what devil's eggs were hatchin' in those tins."

"I believe you, Captain. Fortunately, you've vouched for by—very high authority. However, I'll have to take you with me to Juneau and keep you under surveillance until I've exchanged some wires with the Department." He smiled to take the sting from that, scooped up his papers, and bowed to Captain McGrath. "My thanks for your courtesy, sir. All this is strictly under the rose, of course."

"To be sure, Lieutenant." The liner's captain turned with outstretched hand to the crestfallen O'Moore. "Dan, you canadahan, I'm glad you're not going to jail, this trip," he cried, smiling for the first time since their meeting. "Man, dear, you always were the wild-hearted devil for searching out trouble!"

"Trouble!" snorted Captain O'Moore. "Just wait till I get me two hands on that butter-tongued Starbuck, and his squid-faced Jap. By the horn-billed jeezaw, I'll give 'em trouble!"

"My department has a small consignment of the same in store for those two," Mayes commented dryly. "Let's get on into Juneau and prepare to dish it out, Captain."

Chris ordered the Tanya's anchor up shortly after lunch and towed the Spindrift in as far as St. Lazaria. "You'll have fine weather for the little boat from here to Sitka, and I can go on about my fishing," he said.

"Chris, honey," Liane pleaded, "you really should run on into Sitka with that shoulder. I'm afraid—"

"Huh—run in for that?" Chris scoffed. "My job's to take in fish; and, by gar, I'm staying out till I get 'em."

"Then I'm staying right with you, angel pan!" Liane snuggled against his good arm.

"I'll push off, then," Sondra said, dropping into the Spindrift. "Good luck, children—and good fishing."

The run back to Sitka was uneventful. While still a half-hour from home, Sondra saw a plane wing in from Juneau way, and take off again immediately. No airplanes based on Sitka, and no mail plane would be dropping in at three o'clock of a Sunday afternoon.

"Someone either coming or going in a hurry," she thought. "Wonder if it could be Dynamite."

The waterfront wore its customary air of Sabbath desertion; the Blue Dragon, back again at Kemp's float, being the only power boat in port. But as she neared the Spindrift's mooring place, Jodin, strolling about on his day off, came running down to help her tie up the runabout.

"Polena's gone down to her granddaughter Bessie, at Jamestown Bay," he told Sondra. "Alexander took her, not half an hour ago. Someone brought a note saying Bessie is very sick."

"I'm sorry to hear that."

As Sondra entered the front door of Echo House, she felt the air of desertion that already had taken possession of the untenanted house. Eager for a hot bath, she raced up the stairs—and barely choked back a scream at what she saw when she reached the top. The sitting room door was open, and beside her grandfather's table stood Ikeda, the model of the Glory in his hands.

"Ikeda!" she exclaimed angrily, stepping into the room. "What are you doing here?"

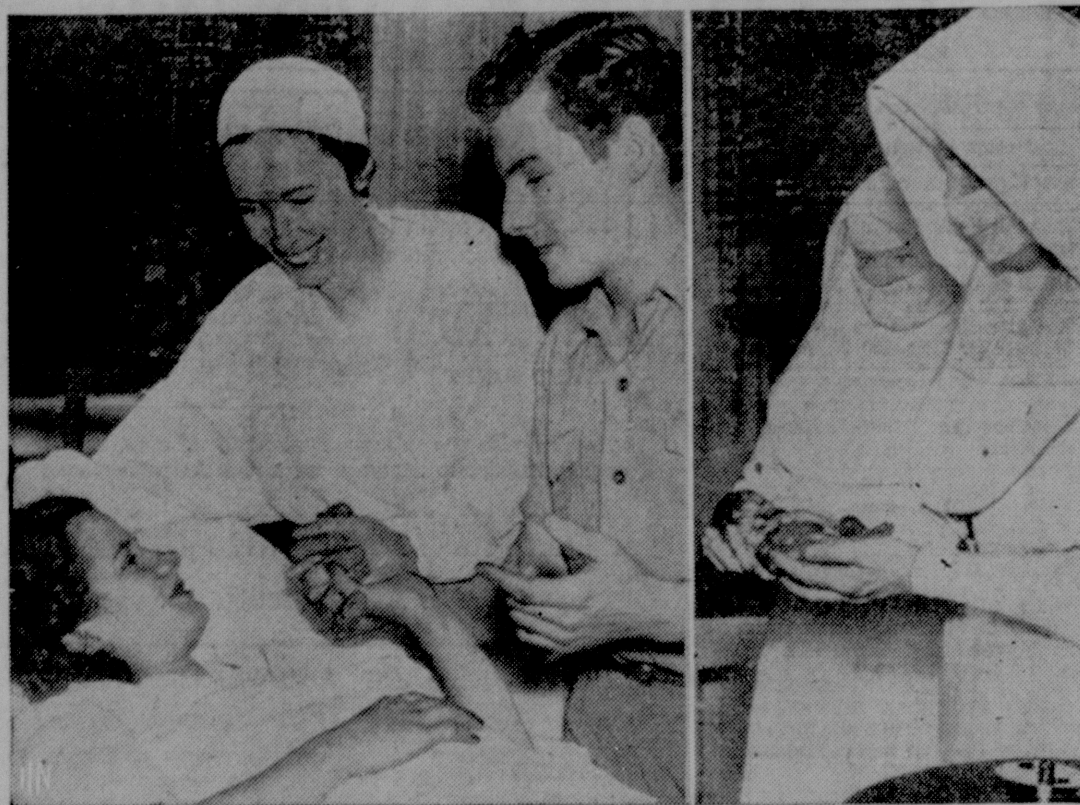

Quite unperturbed, the Japanese turned and bowed. "Miss Sondra, so happy you come, please. Captain O'Moore have just debark from Juneau City airplane. He sends me—"

"Grandfather back so soon? He's not hurt—or sick, Ikeda? Quick! Tell me where he is!"

Ikeda sucked in his breath through a reassuring smile. "Honorable Captain not sick or hurting. He now conversing important business with Mistah Starbuck on board Blue Dragon. He sends me, please, I bringing small ship to him most urgently. The man lifter and low-ered the model of the Glory. 'At once.'"
